Remarks:

The 7th Regiment Virginia Cavalry (also known as "Ashby's Cavalry") was originally organized in the Spring of 1861. A formal muster roll was recorded on July 10, 1861, and the roll was approved by Major General D.M. Hunter on June 19, 1861. In June, 1861, the thirty-eight companies of which it was composed were divided into four battalions. At Sumter, South Carolina, on May 19, 1862, the six companies of the 7th Regiment Virginia Cavalry had been assigned to the 28th Regiment Virginia Cavalry. It was then composed of the 7th Regiment Virginia Cavalry, seven companies organized as the 17th Battalion Virginia Cavalry, one company assigned to the 14th Regiment Virginia Cavalry as Company C, and one company to the 7th Regiment Virginia Cavalry.

The 7th Regiment Virginia Cavalry (also known as "Asby's Cavalry") was originally organized in the spring of 1861. About December 1, 1861, it was ordered to report to the Confederate Army for service. In June, 1862, the command was ordered to the front and to report to the Army of Northern Virginia, under the command of General Lee. By the fall of 1862, the regiment had undergone several changes in command, with Captains John W. Carter, 3rd Virginia Cavalry, and commanding. In December, 1862, the regiment was ordered to report to the Army of Tennessee, where it remained until the end of the war.
